RĀMA, with eyes as big and beautiful as the lotus! Why this incomprehensible hesitation to respond to my appeal that without your knowledge I am likely to beg at the door of someone else? Of radiance surpassing a thousand suns, You ha of having annulled the sins of countless devotees. Yet, you keep me in suspense and tease me. Is it proper? Did you no of taking pity of SUGRĪVA and crowning him? He was after all, a forest-dweller. One worshipped by TYĀGARĀJA!

Darling of my heart! The one with a beautiful name!Of Leonine valour! Residing in AYŌDHYA! Having the ey Wandering in quest of you I have become worn out and emaciated. Yet there is no sign of mercy. What is the use of arguir passionately in love with you and I engage myself in serving you.That you do not appear to accept my service must be due t destiny. When I have prepared a downy bed for you, to sleep, you complain pitilessly. You seem to be guided by the sta not by the genuineness of his devotion, when this bias is foreign to you and your race I have no alernative but to bide my tir
